

Mark Romeo Construction and Project Management

Mark Romeo Construction and Project Management has many years of experience in high-end projects, such as architect-designed homes and prestigious commercial projects.

Choosing Mark Romeo means choosing quality and attention to detail. Our directors are hands-on and responsive, and are supported by a trusted network of specialised tradespeople and suppliers.

We work in partnership with architects and clients on every project and nothing is too little not to have our personal attention.

Our approach is always professional – we take pride in meeting deadlines and completing projects to budget.

We're ready to take on any challenge – we're always at the end of the phone, ready to offer solutions to even the thorniest construction challenge.

With all this on our side, it's no wonder that every one of our clients over the past three years has come to us directly via a referral from a previous project.

If you want to create homes and commercial properties that are completed to the highest standards, then there is no better company to choose than Mark Romeo Constructions and Project Management.
