The Calculatory
CA, CPA and Registered Tax Agent

A student borrows $50 from his father and $50 from his mother, making it a total of $100 to buy a $97 shirt.

From the change of $3, he keeps $1 for himself and repays his parents $1 each.

That means that he still owes his parents $49 each for a total of $98. Including the $1 he kept, this adds to $99.

Where is the missing $1 from the original $100?

Get in touch and let us be your accounting solutions, as well as addressing the missing $1's in your business.
