

I begged Craig (Perram and Toohey Builders) for guidance. "Do we knock down the old church or restore it?" He answered politely "Knocking it down will be easy. Restoring will be hard, could cost double, cause more maintenance and it may fall over." So of course, we restored it.

The final result is a gorgeous reception area. The windows are new, the floor replaced and the walls re-mortared, but it still has the old charm. The floor slopes and the receptionist used to drift to the west. Charming.

The hospital section is all new and the equipment up to date. We have in house laboratory, pre-export testing, small animal surgical facilities, networked computerised record keeping, separate dog and cat hospitalisation and, oh yes, the floor is level.

We have awesome digital x-ray facilities and a separate isolation room. Our hospital has a strong focus on behaviour and improving pets quality of life. We want you and your pet to be happy.

Julie is our head Vet and hospital owner. Julie is a top surgeon and has a passion for behavioural training of pet and owner. This is Julie with her dogs Roger and Sam.

This is Cindy and her dog Bundy. Cindy is a surgical veterinary nurse with 26 yrs of experience. Your pet is in safe and gentle hands.

Our bright spark Steph is head of customer relations. Her enthusiasm will help you feel welcome and important.

This is Megan. A great nurse with a passion for behavioural therapy. Megan runs our puppy school. Many problems are prevented with early socialisation and training making these classes invaluable. Megan is cradling Hector the Protector, our hospital cat.

Heights Pet Hospital is built on the grounds of an old chapel built in memorial to Cyrus Bailey in 1897. The original chapel hall has been converted into a beautiful reception and a modern Veterinary Hospital has been attached.
