

Commercial Lawyers Melbourne

LGM Advisors has an unbroken track record in securing optimal outcomes for commercial clients of all shapes and sizes, from corporate entities to small and medium sized businesses based in Melbourne and beyond. As commercial lawyers, our experience in customer service is what sets us apart. We understand that legal matters are dense and often difficult to negotiate for clients who would rather get on with the job of running their enterprise.

The stress, time, and wasted resources that go in to managing legal matters take a toll on those who are not prepared. As advisors in all aspects of commercial law, we recognize the responsibility we have for clients as they resolve their legal matters. We make the effort of working closely with each client to establish a professional working relationship of equal footing and mutual respect, allowing us to get to know you AND your business. The best legal outcomes are those tailored to individual circumstances and requirements, taking your commercial as well as personal position into account.

With extensive professional experience in litigation, dispute resolution, contract law, intellectual property law, and employment law, the breadth of our practice matches our outcomes for clients. See below for more information on these critical areas of commercial law and the implications they have for your business:

- Employment Lawyers Melbourne – Australia’s employment laws are comprehensive and subject to change with relatively little notice in today’s political climate. Employers face a range of difficulties, from visa regulations to unfair dismissal claims and fair work disputes. The implications for any enterprise faced with an employment dispute or related legal matter are very significant.
- Intellectual Property Lawyers Melbourne – Intellectual property is something legally owned by an individual or entity (such as a company or other organization) that is intellectual in nature, that produces value through its effect on the minds of others. Every business has intellectual property, such as brands or unique products and marketing materials, that need to be protected from theft by competitors.
- Contract Lawyers Melbourne– Contracts form the backbone of all transactions and agreements, binding the parties to a legal relationship that provides mutual protection and assurance. It is a common misconception that there is no point in reading contracts, or that they aren’t really so important as ‘things can be worked out between us’. In reality, this is not the case and businesses are regularly taken to court for breach of contract or disputes over the terms, conditions, or provision of contracts.
- Dispute Resolution – When a dispute occurs between two parties, it is always preferable to resolve the issue outside of courts and tribunals. The heat of the moment may persuade some to attempt litigation right off the bat, and unscrupulous providers of legal services will support this for their own gain. Our experience tells us that in nine out of ten cases, a court or tribunal will order the parties to attend dispute resolution services before the case is heard. This is in the interests of all involved, and saves an enormous amount of time and money whilst delivering better outcomes in most cases.

Comprehensive Legal Advice

The areas described above constitute the core of our practice at LGM Advisors. We recognize these as the most important sub-areas of commercial law for many businesses, and our services reflect this. If you are unsure of your rights or obligations, or believe something is amiss, allow us to take you through your legal position and provide the relevant services and advice. By obtaining legal advice early, it is likely that your enterprise will be saved from the hassle of disputes or setbacks occurring later.

Litigation and Civil Cases

Though we stress the importance and effectiveness of dispute resolution in commercial settings, there are some matters which require thorough consideration and deliberation in order for justice to be done. We have represented a great number of commercial and corporate clients in court, including ASX listed companies, and obtained exceptional outcomes in a timely manner.

If you believe you have a case that needs to be heard, speak to us as soon as you can. It may be that other options are open to you in resolving your matters, and if so we will explore these with you. The nature of the matters involved and the circumstances of the case will determine whether it is appropriate to commence litigation.

Litigation is a time consuming and stressful process, but our professional experience and commitment to delivering optimal outcomes for commercial clients is sure to take the burden off you and your enterprise.

Commercial Lawyers and You: How We Can Help

There does not need to be a specific issue that you are concerned about, or some threat to your legal position or reputation in order for us to assist you. Commercial lawyers understand that prevention is better than cure, and by obtaining legal advice from an experienced firm, your enterprise is sure to have any kinks ironed out of its legal circumstances.

We assist businesses and companies in drafting documentation, including contracts for employees and other businesses, declarations, company policies and constitutions. The wording of official documentation can mean the difference between being secure in your legal position, or remaining open to disputes and exploitation. Likewise, if you are entering in to a commercially important agreement that contains a contract component, it is very important that you have your own lawyers review the documentation with you.

In the event that a dispute occurs, we can work closely with you and your business to identify the appropriate solution and take steps towards this goal. Our advice could mean the difference between a costly legal battle and a simple settlement outside of court, saving you time, money, and preserving your reputation.

In short, all businesses and commercial enterprises stand to benefit from access to comprehensive legal advice, especially advice that is informed by experience. Chances are we have worked with clients in your sector, and understand the unique requirements of your business and the circumstances in which it operates.
