What is a remanufactured cartridge?

A remanufactured cartridge is one that has been recycled from an original. Our manufacturing systems undergo several quality control processes that start with the inspection and screening of raw materials, sorting through the printer cartridges that can be turned into high quality printer supplies, and recycling the materials that do not pass the inspection stage. The cleaning stage, digital filling of toner, sealing, assembling, and post-testing before packaging are also done as part of the process.
