

spaces and creates a smooth transition to the outdoor entertaining area.

The four bedrooms are positioned at different levels throughout the house, taking in the surrounding views. The master bedroom, with built-ins and plenty of room for a king-sized bed, boasts a luxurious ensuite with a sizeable spa and views out to the rainforest. Two more bathrooms ensure all are well catered for, guests included. The remaining three bedrooms are spacious and cleverly positioned to take in the tropical views, with private balconies on each.

A separate guest room at the bottom level of the house is the ideal teenager's retreat or a great little hideaway for guests. Equipped with its own bathroom and secluded views to the rainforest, you could even stay a night or two yourself to create the illusion of a mini break.

Directly below the main living space, and accessible by an internal staircase, is a room sure to delight the music enthusiast – a media room. Lock yourself away on those seasonal rainy days and let the world pass you by as you enjoy your favourite movie in the soundproof surrounds.

So if space is what you are looking for, combined with ingenious design and an element of luxury then a trip up the hill is well worth it. CL
