... people strategies for business

Christine Cox Consulting is a Brisbane-based boutique management consultancy specialising in people strategies for business. Chris has been assisting public and private sector organisations to improve business performance since 1995.

Chris is skilled across a wide range of HR areas and has undertaken national and statewide consulting projects through to providing hands-on generalist HR support to line managers. Whilst covering all areas of HR, her specialisation is in the field of change management, people and organisation development and people management strategies aimed at improving the performance of the organisation.

Chris works extensively with teams at all levels in the workplace to assist them to diagnose performance issues, improve team functioning and dynamics and regularly uses the Team Management Index in her work with teams along with other TMS tools. Other services Chris can assist with include...

- strategies for managing change
- talent management strategies
- designing and delivering learning and development activities
- reviewing organisation structure and business processes
- HR processes, policies and procedures
- team building
- outplacement services for managers and staff
- career coaching and planning
- process improvement strategies.

Chris is a Certified Management Consultant (CMC), holds a Bachelor of Education, Diploma of Consultancy Practice and Certificate IV in Workplace Training and Assessment, is a member of the Institute of Management Consultants and a Professional Member of the Career Development Association of Australia. Accreditations include the Team Management Index and Myers-Briggs Type Indicator.
