The set-up process is straight forward, as it is similar to standard remote access systems. An important part of the process is the security level of your system, which your IT consultant will manage.

2. In-house Champion

An 'In-house Champion' should be appointed within your firm, to manage the relationship with our team in India. Our experience shows that this role is best suited to a senior accountant, with a good appreciation of system and workflow. He or she will need to instruct our Indian team on client specific issues and workflow priority.

3. Trial Jobs

Up to 6 jobs should be scanned into a directory on your system and an initial telephone meeting arranged (via Skype), so that our team in India can run through the process and work papers with you. Our Indian team will then start work on your jobs, with regular contact with the assigned 'In House Champion'.

4. Follow Up

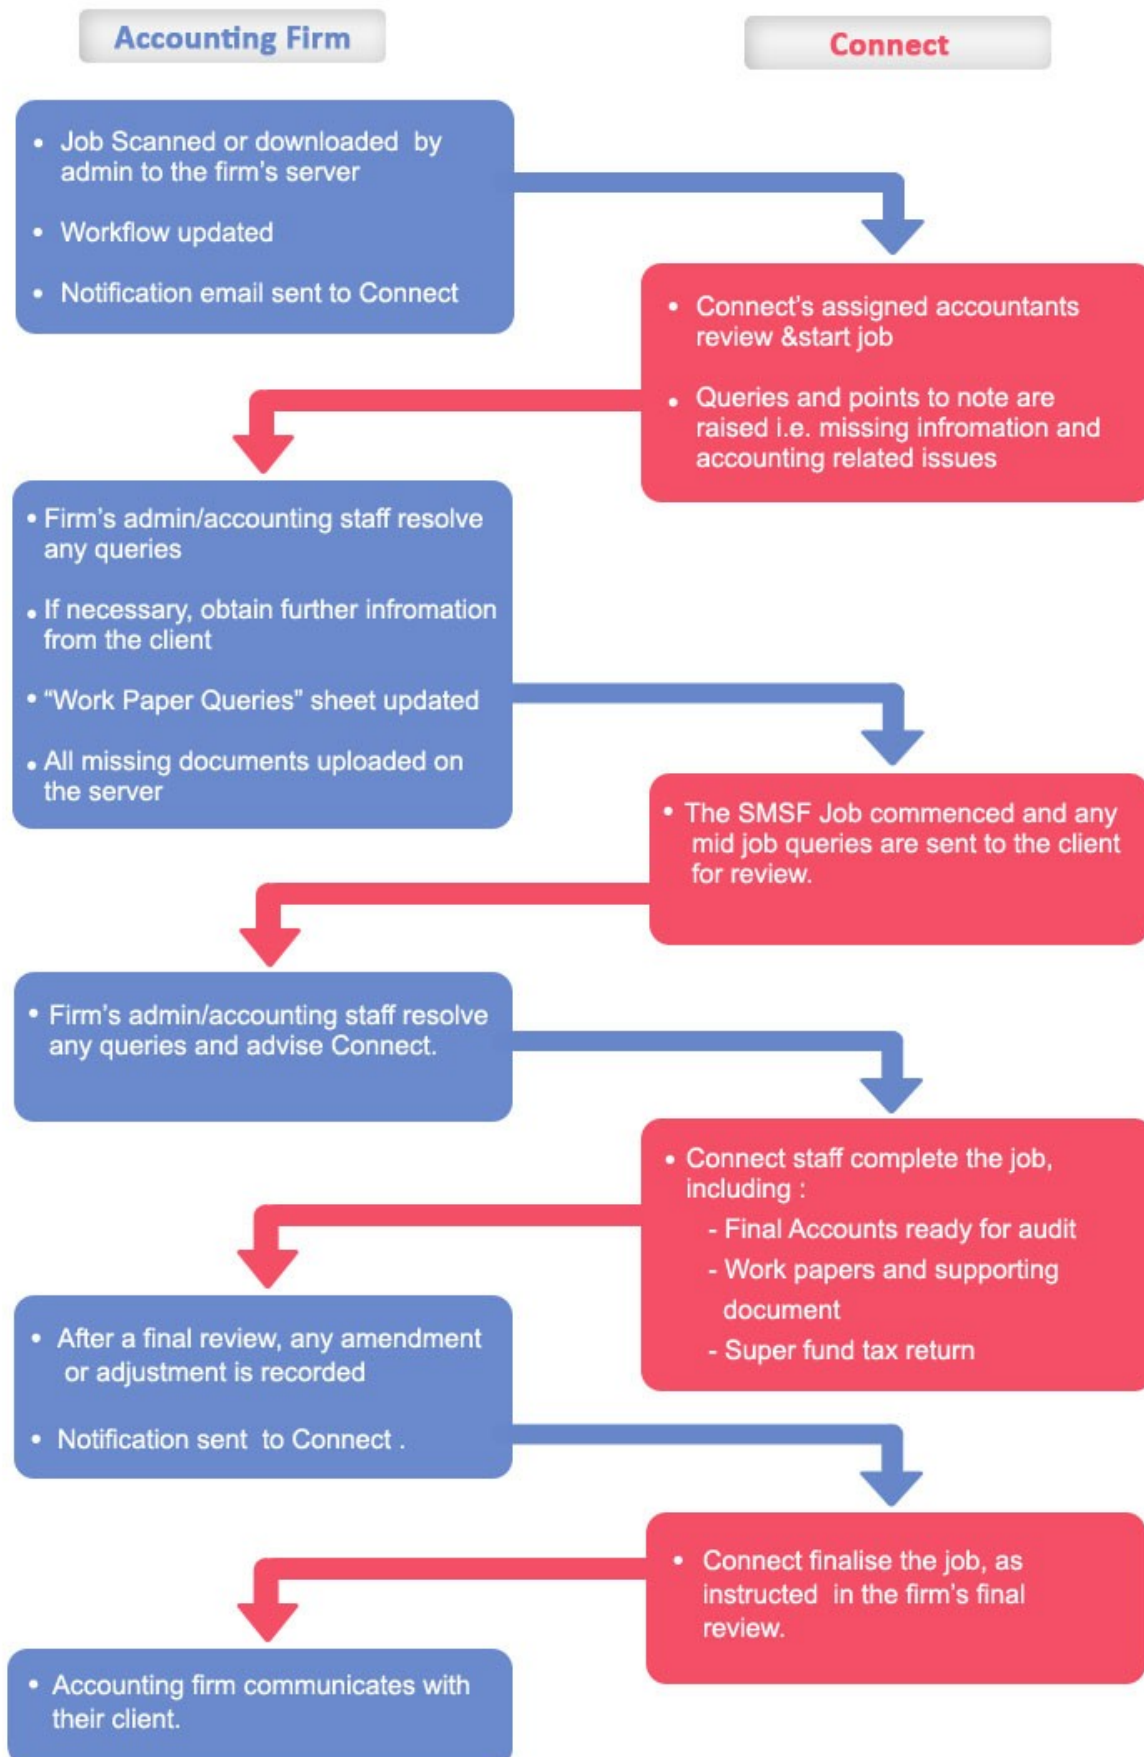

When the trial job have been completed, a further meeting needs to be arranged where any amendments to processes are agreed and a workflow system is established.

5. Agreed Work Gets Assigned

Once the process is streamlined, the volume and timing of work needs to be identified. Resources in India are allocated to achieve the specified turnaround time on jobs. CASE STUDY: BRW TOP 100 ACCOUNTING FIRM

The Beginning

We were invited to visit the office in India and to trial some of our SMSF and business advisory client work, as well as to witness first-hand how the process was managed.

Our first visit to India was a real eye opener, within hours of our arrival the team in India were well into processing the first SMSF with very little training on our software.

During the remainder of my visit the team were able to prepare accounts and income tax returns for a range of clients including companies, trusts and partnerships.

The Beginning

The client is a 5 partner Chartered Accounting and Financial Planning firm, based in regional NSW, with clients stretching across the broader Central Coast region to Sydney and throughout Australia.

Reason for outsourcing

They found that they were being constantly plagued by the lack of suitable staff, the rising costs of employment and client

Outcome

Since our initial visit, we have steadily increased our use of outsourcing and have seen a real transformation in the way in which our firm operates, including:

- The improvement of job turn-around times.
- A reduction in write-offs
- Our quality staff are fast tracked to more advanced tasks

The process works very smoothly and our staff are well trained in how to prepare and manage the work that is to be outsourced. The Connect outsource team can handle most jobs with very little assistance and the amount of re-work is almost non-existent. We are also able to get work done as and when it comes in and have increased the amount of tax planning that we can manage, as we can have interim accounts prepared quickly and accurately.

The range of work that we now outsource includes: interim and final accounts for all types of entities

- tax returns for companies, trusts, partnerships and individuals
- self-managed superannuation funds accounts
- audits
- BAS preparation

"We see the Connect outsource team as an extension of our team. Connect has transformed our office and increased our efficiency and improved our systems beyond our expectations."
