

Why Use A Wise Recruiter?

Networking with Candidates

A respected and reputable recruiter has a very wide network of contacts with access to people and companies that may be unknown to you.

This greatly expands the base of potential candidates and attracts candidates that would not be reached by other mediums.

Time & Cost Saving

A quality recruiter will save you the time and expense of reading through hundreds of resumes as they will screen and interview candidates before passing them on to you.

The recruiter will make or has made, all the phone calls, sent the emails, reached out to the qualified candidates and followed-up the effective leads. The recruiter can decipher which candidates are serious, which ones are not, which are reliable etc.

Finding the Hidden Talent

The recruiter will find your company "achievers" or "superstars" who may not actively be seeking other employment but are qualified for your position.

An experienced recruiter can seek out those passive candidates that will make a career/job change for the "right" reasons.

Client/Candidate Confidentiality

The right recruiter is better able to maintain your confidentiality – an employer may not want a job opening to be public knowledge internally or externally.

Quality & Price

A reputable and respected recruiter can provide you with quality results at a reasonable price along with supportive replacement guarantees.
