WHAT IS NEURO SEMANTIC (NS) META NLP?

Neuro-Semantic NLP is high quality NLP in terms of knowing the basic models. That's part of our vision and mission. Why? Because there is a lot of very poor quality NLP taught around the world. So we spend time teaching the Meta-Model of Language right from the beginning, as well as the NLP Communication Model of representational systems, strategies, and sub-modalities, along with the basic NLP patterns. All this is foundational. In far too many places, people get NLP Practitioner certificates and have not studied the Meta-Model distinctions, don't know the precision questions, and don't know how to track the strategy of an experience. Yet NLP is "the study of the structure of subjective experience."

Neuro-Semantic NLP is high quality NLP in terms of applications. To achieve this, we put a lot of emphasis on "apply to self". Our stated certification policy is – you are not ready to use this material or these patterns on others until you have used them with yourself and applied then to your own issues. This is what earns you the right to use it with others. This is what creates your credibility with others. We do this also because there are still a lot of people doing NLP on people and not applying to self. That makes them inauthentic, incongruent, and generally ineffective practitioners.

Neuro-Semantic NLP is high quality NLP in terms of relationships. As a Communication Model, one of the first things modelled in NLP was "the structure of rapport." And what was discovered from Virginia and Fritz and later Erickson, was that Carl Roger's focus on "accurate empathy" could be obtained by spending time listening, noticing, observing, and calibrating to the other person and then matching them. So relationship is central to high quality NLP. This, in fact, distinguishes those who use NLP with respect and dignity and those who mis-use it for their own manipulations.

Neuro-Semantic NLP is high quality NLP in terms of collaboration. If we learn NLP in a solid and thorough way, if we apply NLP to ourselves, if we build respectful relationships, then we will naturally and inevitably operate from a state of abundance (there's plenty for all) and collaboration. We will live above "the jungle" of the lower needs (Maslow), we will acknowledge sources, we will give credit to those we learn from, and we will seek to set up collaborative partnerships. This lies at the heart of our Vision and Mission in Neuro-Semantics.

PARTICIPANT FEEDBACK FROM PREVIOUS PROGRAMMES

Vivienne Howard, Business Development Manager NSW & Qld, Thompson Reuters

This Training opened my eyes, giving me the tools to creating a new level of awareness for myself first. The program offered me immediate tangible changes in how I view my experiences and thoughts, both personally and professionally. I'd highly recommend the course to anyone looking to grow their awareness of states and how to master them in any context.

John McCracken, Senior Manager, Financial Risk Management Advisory, KPMG

As I write this testimonial I realise that I completed this less than 24hrs ago. Yet my view of the world only three days ago seems like a distant memory compared with how I experienced the world today, it is profoundly different in the most positively powerful way. I started the course with the hope I may be able to gain some skills to be a more effective leader, I finished the course unable not to be a more effective person for myself and all those around me. I believe the technical jargon for the type of change I have undergone is transformational.

This has been evidenced in almost every interaction with my family and team over the last day. There are many examples I could share, one of the most powerful in a personal context I is a conversation between my 8 year old daughter and my wife this morning - from the mouths of our babes;

Daughter - "what happened to Daddy on the weekend?"

Wife - "why do you ask?"

Daughter - "he was just so nice to us last night"

Wife - "what do you mean sweetie"

Daughter - "he just really listened to us all like he never has before"

I now listen so effectively that I am able to hear things that I didn't know existed three days ago; presuppositions, deletions, distortions, generalisations, meta-programs, to name a few. Even when trying to keep a lid on responding to what I was hearing, I was able to stay so completely present to my team members and really catch where they were coming from (and some of the programs they were running which got them there). I was also able to deliberately switch states as appropriate to different situations, which made the interactions more effective and outcomes derived more efficiently.

Kerry Sefton, Group Manager, People & Systems, Griffith City Council

"I had long been interested in NLP and Neuro-Semantic coaching. Well I got much more than that, as an experienced HR and Learning Development Manager, I thought I was well tuned to people and a good listener - boy did I find out my limitations. It was a transformational experience for me and I came back to work absolutely hooked on how I could make myself a better person and therefore a better manager and team member.

I am a member of the senior management team within local government and had long advocated that as a team we needed some training/coaching to make us function better as a team and operate more strategically and suggested The Coaching Room as our coaching providers.

Following an exchange of emails and calls with Jay I presented the team with the Unleashing Leadership 3 day course. I informed the team that we would be acknowledging where we were now on an individual basis in terms of what leadership skills we had, how our personality types - gained from the Enneagram - influence our behaviours, then think about where we wanted to be and how we were going to get there.

I did say that the course was probably going to be confrontational but everyone felt that they were up to the challenge and the mood was, I'd say, apprehensive excitement. The coaching has exceeded our expectations. The courses are being followed up by specific group coaching and one to one coaching with Jay and Joseph to inbed what we have learnt and how we want to be in the future.

I do believe that the one to one coaching that we are receiving makes all the difference and I know from the feedback I am getting from the team that the coaching is having an impact not only on our working lives and how we inter-act with each other but is also influencing our private lives as we open up and become more self-aware. The Coaching Room guys are not just another team of 'trainers' they are much more than that and the difference is felt from the first hour - we couldn't recommend them more highly and are planning to have a long relationship with them as we can see the benefits of their coaching throughout our organisation."

"I received greater awareness of human nature & human Meta Programs (thinking patterns). I also feel that I have accessed the way to profound change in my life & for others close to me. I feel that I am much more aware of my choices, coming from specific frames of reference".

Jason Bailey, Manager - Anglicare Australia.

" I found the training extremely insightful and extremely beneficial - both professionally and personally. I highly recommend this for anyone looking at coaching, managing and leading".

George Ribar, Director Promena Management Contracting & Consulting

I would highly recommend this program to anyone who wants to learn to coach and communicate, and learn about themselves. The knowledge learned will greatly assist with positive outcomes - both personally and professionally.

Craig Lamberton, Director Specialised Regulation, Department of Environment & Heritage, NSW

This course opened my mind to moving from communicating in black and white to communicating in FULL COLOUR. Great for leadership and great fun!

Sally Castle, Marketing Manager, Climate Friendly

The training program has given me the knowledge that being truly present with people is possible - more deeply than I could have imagined. Even better, the course gave me practical tools that I can use every day to achieve the deep connections with myself and those around me (that I have been looking for).

Jan Cope HR Business Partner - Technology, Vodafone Hutchison Australia

Day 3, after completing the NLP Practitioners Course ... where do I start! So enjoying what I now think, see, hear + how feel.

This morning, I thought how fortunate I am to have experienced and felt and seen changes that have occurred for me in the last 7 days.

As I arrived at work this morning, I was offered the opportunity to draw on new resources and learning's in a way I could not have ever imagined previously... I'm loving that change!

I can only imagine what I will experience during the Masters in September " Wow wow wow!"
