

IMPLANT DENTURES

Implant retained dentures have special significance for people who cannot wear lower dentures. As an edentulous (toothless) person ages, and the bone continues to deteriorate, lower ridges frequently disappear entirely.

Thus there is no vertical bone underlying the gums to stabilize a lower denture. These people frequently cannot wear a lower denture at all.

The addition of two implants in the front of the lower jaw can make it possible to retain a lower denture which would otherwise be impossible for the patient to tolerate.

STANDARD DENTURES

Standard Dentures are made for people who are already missing all their teeth. The top denture relies on suction to retain position and the hardness of the underlying tissues for its stability.

It generally takes 4 or sometimes more appointments to make a standard set of dentures.

COSMETIC DENTURES

Cosmetic dentures are high quality, natural looking dentures which will provide you with optimum function, confidence and the ability to enhance your facial appearance.

Precision dentures are the most accurate and most natural looking dentures available in today's market. They are made with the highest quality teeth, wear resistant and stain resistant..

Cosmetic dentures involve intricate and intensive labor to produce the perfect design for the individual.

PARTIAL DENTURES

Partial dentures are designed to replace missing teeth while preserving the natural remaining teeth in the most natural way possible. Partial dentures maintain tooth placement and minimize movement in the mouth associate with missing teeth.

Metal partial dentures are made of Cast Metal RPD. These appliances are extremely accurate fitting frames that rest and retentively brace the natural dentition.

Acrylic Partial Dentures are made from Acrylic (plastic) RPD, this form of appliance is generally thicker than the metal denture and in most cases used as a temporary product to maintain the space for implant placement or an integrating process for a metal prosthesis.

This form of denture can replace a single front tooth.

MOUTH GUARD

Mouth guards are an important appliance used by people of all ages to avoid damage to the mouth during impact sports. They can be made in single or multiple colors', depending on the preference of the client or club.
