DESIGN

A landscape design is a critical element of a well put together landscape project. We recommend a landscape design be done in a package with the job quotation as it gives the client a better understanding of the finished project, and that the job is constructed just the way the design was intended. The client with the full design can make sure what details are part of the project and that they are getting what they paid for.

The design process is as follows-

- onsite meeting to discuss options, client opinions, potential problems and design aspects
- prepare a draft plan to outline the ideas of the design, what goes where, and a rough cost of the job
- on client satisfaction the full design is done to scale using computer-aided design programs, showing all design features, labels, plant lists and sizes, project notes and construction details
- 3d photo images can also be part of the design package, based upon a before photo of the job site, with the landscape features overlaid on the photo to show the finished product
