CLUSTERED POSY

Known as the most classic in design, a clustered posy features blooms held together by their stems. The stems can be wired if required for a more structured look. The blooms are often hand tied and bound with ribbon and adornments.

Midnight Romance Theme - Fairy-tale

A whimsical magic feeling transcends through this style, with shimmering accents highlighted by the orchids and the woody imagery from the dodda vine. The guests felt like they were in an enchanted forest surrounded by lush roses, orchids, dark calla lily's and ivy. Each bridesmaid had a different bouquet according to their shape and size.

ARM SHEAF

An arm sheaf is a loose bunch of long stemmed blooms that is cradled in your arm. The arm sheaf looks fantastic for the taller bride or the bride that wants to show off intricate detail in her wedding dress. Usually linear in design. Try something a little different, look outside the square.

BUTTON HOLE

Buttonholes are a classic. The Buttonhole is based on the Bridal Bouquets and reflects the style and accentuates the theme of the wedding. From modern to the more classic Buttonhole, you can be as imaginative as you like. This particular style has a black feather and dodda vine to emphasize the theme of the wedding!

TEAR DROP

A traditional choice for the bride and bridesmaids. This style can range in all sizes and also contain simply flowers and no foliage. Simply put, the Tear Drop is a small cascade of flowers designed in a modern compact style.
